

Travel Publishing Officially Launches its Redesigned and Rebranded Website, findSOMEWHERE.CO.UK...for people who want to explore the United Kingdom.

findsomewhere.co.uk provides information on thousands of places to visit, stay, eat, drink and shop anywhere in the UK. The new site marks a dramatic improvement in the content, appearance and usability of Travel Publishing's website.

The website is aimed at people planning a holiday, short break or business trip, or for people simply looking for places to visit, stay, eat, drink and shop.

With a plethora of villages, towns, cities and scenic attractions to visit in the UK, travellers need some guidance on where to go and what to see. As well as providing details of thousands of places to stay, eat, drink and shop findsomewhere.co.uk's expansive database contains information on tens of thousands of places of interest as well as interesting stories, amusing anecdotes and historical facts on over 5,000 villages, towns and cities. This is sourced from Travel Publishing's extensive database of editorial material used in its published travel guides.

The findsomewhere.co.uk website is easy to use and delivers results quickly. It helps people:-

- Find information on places to stay, eat, drink and shop and how to contact them.
- Find detailed information on places to visit with directions.
- Print off their search results with ease.
- Link to other relevant sources of visitor information.

It has been designed to ensure that visitors can plan their trips within the UK with all the information they need at their fingertips.

Chris Day and Peter Robinson the co-owners of Travel Publishing said on the launch of the new site:

"The main aim of the new site is for the user to easily obtain focussed results on places to stay, eat, drink and shop by selecting the type of establishment and its approximate location. It had to be intuitive, easy to use and quick to return results. At the same time we wanted to make available our valuable editorial information on villages, towns and cities around the UK to ensure that users can select places to visit and also things to do during their visit"
